

PRESS RELEASE 19/4/07

Dominique Finney has just returned from her successful trip to New Zealand where her book "The Wellness Zone" was well received by the natural health industry. "The Wellness Zone" is available in book shops throughout New Zealand which is Dominique's first dip into international waters. Trade mark processes have been completed and Dominique now holds exclusive rights to The Wellness Zone name for all written media, publications and educational purposes.

"This is exciting news for me , because now we can concentrate on the second book in the series which I hope to have on the shelves within the next twelve to eighteen months, its a big process writing and publishing a book and I want to ensure the content is what my readers want and ensure we maintain the same high standards as in the first book."

Dominique visited bookshops and spoke with the public about "The Wellness Zone" in The North Island of New Zealand over the easter school holidays.

"I like to leave school holidays open for this type of trip, I also need time to write, edit and just get on track with other aspects of my work such as conferences and public events. This trip to New Zealand was very inspiring, as the geography is awesome, the people very receptive to my ideas and the alternative health sector there is ground breaking in some areas. It's always healthy to look at your industry from another angle. And that's what this trip offered me as I researched aspects of cultural and folk medicines to incorporate into my dispensary here in Australia. I just love local medicines and think that if something grows in your local area then it has a healing purpose related to illnesses that also appear in that area."
